Gerard,

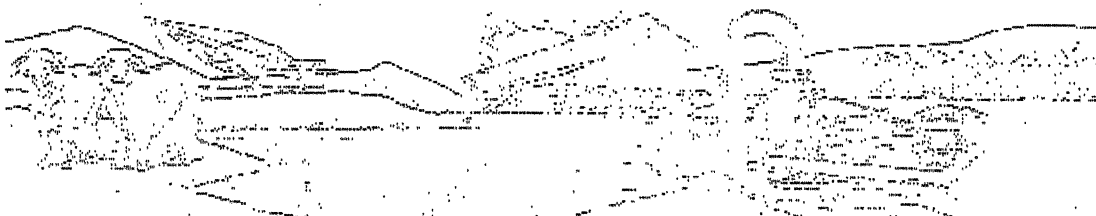

I just wanted to let you know of an interesting experience that I had with your new Diamond Kleen product. I had just recently finished installing a sand filter which had replaced a worn out D.E. Filter, and I decided to vacuum the pool of which the entire bottom was covered in D.E. powder. Normally I would vac this to waste as sand or other filter media would not hold the powder, and it would come streaming back into the pool via the returns.

However, I wanted to test the Diamond Kleen to see how it performed, and so I vacuumed it through normal filter operation. To my surprise, it never returned to the pool, at all! So I naturally thought it must have been in the filter. However the pressure gauge which would normally reflect a substantial amount of powder contained therein by an increase in pressure, was still on 70kpa, the same as it was when it was first commissioned. So I started to think, "where has it gone?" I found out when I backwashed the filter that it was there all the time.

After having a considerable amount of problems with other filter media, it is nice to find a product that is not only environmentally friendly, but that actually works, and works well.

Regards
